The InnerWork Company

Changing Business One Meeting at a Time

For centuries, people have needed to gather and discuss their most important issues, learn new things, and develop new bonds and commitments to one another. These days, for organizations, the corporate meeting is the new village green.

The InnerWork Company is a management training and consulting group that improves our clients business performance through the comprehensive development of people, teams, and the organization. InnerWork provides corporate groups and associations with a wide range of meeting design, programming, and facilitation services to create effective meetings.

Internationally, our team has now served over 100,000 corporate meeting attendees, and our corporate meeting design, program and facilitation services have been used by most of the Fortune 500 companies to enhance their return-on-investment (ROI) and return-on-objectives (ROO) from their corporate meetings. Our value-adding services have helped our clients produce documented multi-million dollar results from more effective, high impact, and engaging corporate meetings and conferences.
